3. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

a. Purpose

The purpose of the proposed rule change is to withdraw the Trading Insights product from sale. Trading Insights is an optional market data service designed to help members analyze their own order activity. Nasdaq has determined, however, that the product is no longer needed, and, for certain components of the product, members are able to gather similar insights into their own order activity using existing messaging received on their order acknowledgments. Because Trading Insights is no longer needed in the industry, Nasdaq has decided to redirect the resources used to offer Trading Insights toward new tools and services, and withdraw the product from sale.

Trading Insights

Trading Insights is an optional market data service designed to help members analyze their own order activity. It is comprised of three components: (a) Missed Opportunity—Liquidity; (b) Missed Opportunity—Latency; and (c) Peer Benchmarking.³

The Missed Opportunity—Liquidity component identifies when an order from a market participant could have been increased in size, resulting in the execution of additional shares, and is designed to provide information to a market participant interested in gaining insight into pockets of liquidity.⁴

The Missed Opportunity—Latency component identifies the amount of time by which an otherwise marketable order missed execution, and is designed to provide information to market participants interested in optimizing their models and trading patterns.⁵

The Peer Benchmarking component ranks the quality of a market participant's trading performance against its peers, allowing each participant to view its relative trading performance by port.⁶ It is designed to help participants better understand trends

⁴ The data elements for this component, in summary, are: (i) Issue (Nasdaq symbol for the issue); (ii) Buy/Sell Indicator (side of the market at which the market participants are quoting); (iii) Price (the price (inclusive of decimal point) at which Nasdaq Market Center market participants had order interest for the given security at the given time); (iv) Order Reference Number (the unique reference number assigned to the new order at the time of receipt); (v) Order Entry Time Stamp (the time order was received in the system); (vi) Share Quantity (total number of shares submitted on original order); and (vii) Missed Opportunity Quantity (total number of shares missed).

⁶ A port is a means by which a member firm connects to Nasdaq's systems. Each port would be categorized into a peer grouping that would be based upon a given set of metrics that would share similar trading behavior characteristics, and there would be at least ten peers within a security. The data elements for this component, in summary, include: (i) Total Dollar Volume; (ii) Total Share Volume, Share Volume of Liquidity Provision and Accessible for Tape A, Tape B and Tape C; (iii) Number of Trades, including Hidden Orders and Number of over time, their relative performance relative to their competitors in general, and whether behavioral changes translate into expected results.

All of the data offered by Trading Insights is specific to the market participant's port, and no participant would be able to receive another market participant's data.

All data is provided on a T+1 basis.

Proposed Withdrawal

Nasdaq regularly reviews its product catalog to ensure that the tools and services it offers fit the needs of its customers. As explained above, Trading Insights is an optional market data service designed to help members analyze their own order activity. Nasdaq has found, however, that members are able to use messaging received on their order acknowledgments, coupled with internal software, to obtain the same insights into trading activity that certain components of Trading Insights was designed to convey.⁷

Because the product is no longer needed in the industry, Nasdaq has decided to withdraw it and its associated fees from the market.

Hidden Trades; (iv) Mean/Median Trade Size; (v) Mean/Median Size of Hidden Orders; (vi) Number of Buy/Sell Orders Received; (vii) Number of Aggressive Orders, Mean Size of Aggressive Buy/Sell Orders; (viii) Number of Passive Orders, Mean Size of Displayed Passive Order, Hidden Passive for Buy and Sell Orders; (ix) Number of Orders at Best Bid/Ask Level; (x) Mean Cost to Execute for Buy and Sell for 1000, 5000, 10000 Shares; (xi) Number of Modified/Cancelled Buy/Sell Orders; (xii) Mean Buy/Sell Price Range; (xiii) Total Number of Buy/Sell Price; (xiv) Number, Mean--Resting Buy/Sell Price Points; (xv) Missed Opportunities--Liquidity, Latency; (xvi) Mean Share Volume Against Hidden, Mean Quote Rotation Time.

⁷ Nasdaq had noted previously that some market participants may be able to derive some of the data provided by Nasdaq Trading Insights based on executions and internal algorithms created by customers. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 78886 (September 20, 2016), 81 FR 66113 (September 26, 2016) (SR-Nasdaq-2016-101).

The withdrawal of Trading Insights will not materially impact either Nasdaq's members or the market as a whole. Currently, less than ten customers purchase Trading Insights. Nasdaq has discussed the proposed withdrawal with each, and none indicated that withdrawal would materially impact their operations. Nasdaq also publicly announced its intent to withdraw Trading Insights in a Data News publication issued on October 1, 2021,⁸ and received no feedback indicating that withdrawal would be problematic.

Withdrawal of Trading Insights will not have a different impact on different types of market participants. Members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product would remain unaffected.

In light of the small number of customers currently using the product, the ability of members to analyze their own order activity using in-house software, and the lack of any negative feedback after discussing the proposed withdrawal with Trading Insights customers and announcing it publicly, Nasdaq proposes to withdraw Trading Insights from sale as of December 31, 2021.

b. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,⁹ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹⁰ in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest, and is not designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers or dealers.

Withdrawing a product that is no longer needed in the industry is the quintessence of competition. The Proposal promotes competition because Nasdaq, like all of its competitors, has limited resources with which to attract customers, and, to remain competitive, Nasdaq must use its resources effectively. Withdrawal will allow Nasdaq to redirect its internal resources into developing other products that more effectively meet customer demand.

The Proposal will not permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, or dealers. Members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product will remain unaffected. The Proposal therefore does not permit unfair discrimination.

For all of these reasons, the proposed withdrawal of Trading Insights promotes just and equitable principles of trade, removes impediments to and perfects the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, protects investors and the public interest, and does not permit unfair discrimination.

4. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Intermarket Competition

The withdrawal of Trading Insights will have no impact on intermarket competition (the competition among SROs). As explained above, the Proposal would allow Nasdaq to redirect its internal resources into developing other products that more effectively meet customer demand. Other platforms may use the opportunity of this withdrawal to introduce their own versions of Trading Insights, although, as is evident from Nasdaq's experience, such a product may not elicit high customer demand.

Intramarket Competition

The Proposal will not cause any unnecessary or inappropriate burden on intramarket competition (competition among exchange customers). As explained in our discussion of unfair discrimination above, members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product will remain unaffected. The Proposal therefore will not cause any unnecessary or inappropriate burden on intramarket competition.

5. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were either solicited or received.

6. Extension of Time Period for Commission Action

Not applicable.

7. Basis for Summary Effectiveness Pursuant to Section 19(b)(3) or for Accelerated Effectiveness Pursuant to Section 19(b)(2)

The foregoing rule change has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A)(iii)¹¹ of the Act and Rule 19b-4(f)(6) thereunder¹² in that it effects a change that: (i) does not significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) does not impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) by its terms, does not become operative for 30 days after the date of the filing, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate if consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest.

The proposed withdrawal of Trading Insights does not significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest because, as explained above, members are able to use messaging received on their order acknowledgments, coupled with internal software, to obtain the same insights into trading activity that certain components of Trading Insights was designed to convey. Nasdaq has discussed the withdrawal with each of the customers currently purchasing the product, and none indicated that withdrawal would materially impact their operations. Nasdaq also publicly announced its intent to withdraw Trading Insights in a Data News publication issued on October 1, 2021,¹³ and received no feedback indicating that withdrawal would be problematic.

The withdrawal of Trading Insights will not impose any significant burden on intermarket competition because, as explained above, the Proposal would allow Nasdaq to redirect its internal resources into developing other products that more effectively meet customer demand.

The withdrawal of Trading Insights will not impose any significant burden on intramarket competition because, as explained above, members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product will remain unaffected.

Furthermore, Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii)¹⁴ requires a self-regulatory organization to give the Commission written notice of its intent to file a proposed rule change under that subsection at least five business days prior to the date of filing, or such shorter time as designated by the Commission. The Exchange requests a waiver of such notice because the Proposal was provided to Commission Staff with the filing of SR-Nasdaq 2021-098, which was filed on December 6, 2021.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. If the Commission takes such action, the Commission shall institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule should be approved or disapproved.

A proposed rule change filed under Rule 19b-4(f)(6) normally does not become operative prior to 30 days after the date of filing. Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii), however, permits the Commission to designate a shorter time if such action is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest. The Exchange requests that the Commission waive the 30-day operative delay contained in Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii). As explained above, Nasdaq has discussed the withdrawal with each of the customers currently purchasing the product, and none indicated that withdrawal would materially impact their operations. Nasdaq also publicly announced its intent to withdraw Trading Insights on December 31, 2021, and received no feedback indicating that withdrawal would be problematic. For these reasons, Nasdaq believes that withdrawing Trading Insights on that date is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest, and requests that the Commission waive the 30-day operative delay contained in Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii).

received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The purpose of the proposed rule change is to withdraw the Trading Insights product from sale. Trading Insights is an optional market data service designed to help members analyze their own order activity. Nasdaq has determined, however, that the product is no longer needed, and, for certain components of the product, members are able to gather similar insights into their own order activity using existing messaging received on their order acknowledgments. Because Trading Insights is no longer needed in the industry, Nasdaq has decided to redirect the resources used to offer Trading Insights toward new tools and services, and withdraw the product from sale.

Trading Insights

Trading Insights is an optional market data service designed to help members analyze their own order activity. It is comprised of three components: (a) Missed Opportunity—Liquidity; (b) Missed Opportunity—Latency; and (c) Peer Benchmarking.³

³ See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 78886 (September 20, 2016), 81 FR 66113 (September 26, 2016) (SR-Nasdaq-2016-101); see also Securities Exchange Release No. 79035 (October 4, 2016), 81 FR 70207 (October 11, 2016) (SR-Nasdaq-2016-124) (setting fees for Trading Insights); Securities Exchange Act Release No. 80856 (June 5, 2017), 82 FR 26820 (June 9, 2017) (SR-Nasdaq-2017-051) (modifying fees to allow members to sponsor their customers to receive Trading Insights and extending a free trial offer). The Missed Opportunity—Liquidity component identifies when an order from a market participant could have been increased in size, resulting in the execution of additional shares, and is designed to provide information to a market participant interested in gaining insight into pockets of liquidity.⁴

trading performance by port.⁶ It is designed to help participants better understand trends over time, their relative performance relative to their competitors in general, and whether behavioral changes translate into expected results.

All of the data offered by Trading Insights is specific to the market participant's port, and no participant would be able to receive another market participant's data.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,⁹ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹⁰ in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest, and is not designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers or dealers.

Withdrawing a product that is no longer needed in the industry is the quintessence of competition. The Proposal promotes competition because Nasdaq, like all of its competitors, has limited resources with which to attract customers, and, to remain competitive, Nasdaq must use its resources effectively. Withdrawal will allow Nasdaq to redirect its internal resources into developing other products that more effectively meet customer demand.

The Proposal will not permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, or dealers. Members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product will remain unaffected. The Proposal therefore does not permit unfair discrimination.

For all of these reasons, the proposed withdrawal of Trading Insights promotes just and equitable principles of trade, removes impediments to and perfects the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, protects investors and the public interest, and does not permit unfair discrimination.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Intermarket Competition

The withdrawal of Trading Insights will have no impact on intermarket competition (the competition among SROs). As explained above, the Proposal would allow Nasdaq to redirect its internal resources into developing other products that more effectively meet customer demand. Other platforms may use the opportunity of this withdrawal to introduce their own versions of Trading Insights, although, as is evident from Nasdaq's experience, such a product may not elicit high customer demand.

Intramarket Competition

The Proposal will not cause any unnecessary or inappropriate burden on intramarket competition (competition among exchange customers). As explained in our discussion of unfair discrimination above, members that currently purchase the product have not indicated that they would be materially disadvantaged by its withdrawal, and members that do not currently purchase the product will remain unaffected. The Proposal therefore will not cause any unnecessary or inappropriate burden on intramarket competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were either solicited or received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Because the foregoing proposed rule change does not: (i) significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) become operative for 30 days from the date on which it was filed, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate, it has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A)(iii) of the Act¹¹ and subparagraph (f)(6) of Rule 19b-4 thereunder.¹²

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. If the Commission takes such action, the Commission shall institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule should be approved or disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments
