3. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

a. Purpose

Nasdaq is proposing to amend Listing Rules 5810 and 5815 to provide that a company will be suspended from trading on Nasdaq if the company has been non-compliant with the $1.00 bid price requirement for more than 360 days. In addition, Nasdaq is proposing to modify the listing standards such that Nasdaq will immediately send a Delisting Determination, as defined in Rule 5805(h), without any compliance period, to any company that becomes non-compliant with the $1.00 minimum bid price requirement if the company effected a reverse stock split within the prior one-year period.

Nasdaq listing standards require a company's equity securities listed on the Nasdaq Global Select, Global and Capital Markets to maintain a closing bid price that is no less than one dollar per share (the "Bid Price Requirement").³ Upon a company's failure to satisfy the applicable Bid Price Requirement, Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) provides for an automatic compliance period of 180 calendar days for the company to achieve compliance with the Bid Price Requirement.⁴ Subject to certain requirements,⁵ including

⁵ Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) states that if a Company listed on the Capital Market is not deemed in compliance before the expiration of the 180 day compliance period, it will be afforded an additional 180 day compliance period, provided that on the 180th day of the first compliance period it meets the applicable market value of publicly held shares requirement for continued listing and all other applicable standards for initial listing on the Capital Market (except the bid price requirement) based on the Company's most recent public filings and market information and notifies Nasdaq of its intent to cure this deficiency. If a Company does not indicate its intent to cure the deficiency, or if it does not appear to Nasdaq that it is possible for the Company to cure the deficiency, the Company will not be eligible for the second grace period. If the Company has publicly announced information (e.g., in an earnings release) indicating that it no longer satisfies the applicable listing criteria, it shall not be eligible for the additional compliance period under this rule.

notifying Nasdaq of the company's intent to cure this deficiency, a company listed on, or that transfers to, the Nasdaq Capital Market may be provided with a second 180-day compliance period. If a company is not eligible for the second compliance period, or the company is eligible but does not resolve the bid price concern during the second compliance period, the company is issued a Delisting Determination under Rule 5810 with respect to that security, which can be appealed to a Nasdaq Listing Qualifications Hearings Panel. The Panel can allow a company up to an additional 180 days from the date of the Delisting Determination for the company to regain compliance.⁶

The bid price rules truncate these compliance periods in two circumstances. First, Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iii) provides that if a company's security has a closing bid price of $0.10 or less for 10 consecutive trading days, Nasdaq must issue a Delisting Determination with respect to that security, notwithstanding any otherwise available compliance period. Second, Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iv) provides that if a company's security fails to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price and the company has effected one or more reverse stock splits over the prior two-year period with a cumulative ratio of 250 shares or more to one, then the company is not eligible for any compliance periods and Nasdaq must issue a Delisting Determination with respect to that security.

Based on Nasdaq's experience with the rules, Nasdaq is proposing two changes to the bid price requirements for listed companies to better protect investors.

Suspension After 360 Days of Non-compliance

Nasdaq has observed that some companies do not regain compliance during the second 180-day compliance period notwithstanding the company's notification to Nasdaq of its intent to do so. In these circumstances, Nasdaq issues a Delisting Determination; however, as described above, the company could continue its listing by appealing that decision to a Hearings Panel, which has the discretion to provide up to 180 additional days from the date of the Delisting Determination.⁷ Accordingly, a company that failed to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement may request a review of a Delisting Determination and seek an exception to the requirements from the Hearings Panel and could remain listed and trading on Nasdaq pursuant to an exception granted by the Panel. As a result, a company may be continuously deficient with the Bid Price Requirement and continue trading on Nasdaq for more than 360 days (but not more than 540 days).

Nasdaq believes that two consecutive compliance periods for a total of 360 days is a sufficient period of time for a company to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement, even if the company is required to obtain stockholder approval to effect a reverse stock split by the jurisdiction where the company is incorporated. Nasdaq provides a company with a second bid price compliance period only if the company reviewed its circumstances and notified Nasdaq that it intends to cure the bid price deficiency by effecting a reverse stock split within the second 180-day compliance period. As such, Nasdaq believes that it is not appropriate for a company in these circumstances to continue trading on Nasdaq during the pendency of the Hearings Panel review process. Instead, Nasdaq proposes to amend Rule 5815 to remove the stay provision in these situations so that the company's securities will be suspended from trading on Nasdaq during the pendency of the Hearings Panel's review.⁸

Specifically, Nasdaq proposes to adopt Listing Rule 5815(a)(1)(B)(ii)d. to provide that notwithstanding the general rule that a timely request for a hearing shall ordinarily stay the suspension and delisting action pending the issuance of a written panel decision, a request for a hearing shall not stay the suspension of the securities from trading where the matter relates to a request made by a company that was afforded the second 180-day compliance period described in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) and that failed to regain compliance with the minimum bid price requirement during that period. For clarity, Nasdaq proposes to note that pursuant to Rule 5810(c)(3)(A), a company achieves compliance with the minimum bid price requirement by meeting the applicable standard for a minimum of 10 consecutive business days, unless Staff exercises its discretion to extend this 10 day period as discussed in Rule 5810(c)(3)(H).

A company that is suspended under the proposed rule could appeal the Delisting Determination to a Hearings Panel, but its securities would trade in the over-the-counter (OTC) market while that appeal is pending. Pursuant to Listing Rule 5815(c)(1)(A) the Hearings Panel will continue to have discretion, where it deems appropriate, to provide an exception for up to 180 days from the Delisting Determination date for the company to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. Pursuant to Listing Rule 5815(c)(1)(E) the Hearings Panel will also continue to have the authority to find the company in compliance with all applicable listing standards and reinstate the trading of the company's securities on Nasdaq (e.g., if the company effects a reverse stock split and maintains a $1.00 closing bid price for at least 10 consecutive days while trading in the OTC market).

Excessive Reverse Stock Splits

As described above, upon a company's failure to satisfy the applicable Bid Price Requirement, Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) provides for an automatic compliance period of 180 calendar days for the company to achieve compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. The process of providing an automatic 180-day compliance period is designed to allow adequate time for a company facing temporary business issues, a temporary decrease in the market value of its securities, or temporary market conditions to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. However, Nasdaq has observed that some companies, typically those in financial distress or experiencing a prolonged operational downturn, engage in a pattern of repeated reverse stock splits.

Nasdaq believes that such behavior is often indicative of deep financial or operational distress within such companies rendering them inappropriate for trading on Nasdaq for investor protection reasons. In these situations, Nasdaq has observed that the challenges facing such companies, generally, are not temporary and may be so severe that the company is not likely to regain compliance within the prescribed compliance period and will continue oscillating between compliance and non-compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. Moreover, a pattern of recurring bid price non-compliance can be a leading indicator of other listing compliance concerns. As a result, these companies often become subject to delisting for other reasons during the compliance periods.

In 2020, Nasdaq amended the rules to require the issuance of a Delisting Determination if a company falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement after completing one or more reverse stock splits resulting in a cumulative ratio of 250 shares or more to one over the two-year period before such non-compliance (the “2020 Rule”).⁹ As described above, in these cases the company is not afforded an automatic compliance period. Notwithstanding this rule change, Nasdaq continues to observe some companies engaging in a pattern of effecting consecutive reverse stock splits, which are often accompanied by dilutive issuances of securities.

Accordingly, Nasdaq proposes to further enhance investor protections by immediately initiating the delisting process (rather than providing a 180-day compliance period) for any company’s security that becomes non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement if, in the prior one-year period, the company conducted a reverse stock split (regardless of the ratio). The company could appeal that delisting notification to the Hearings Panel, where it could receive up to 180 days to regain compliance, as described above. Specifically, Nasdaq proposes to amend Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iv) to provide that if a company’s security fails to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price and the company has effected a reverse stock split over the prior one-year period then the company shall not be eligible for any compliance period specified in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) and the Listing Qualifications Department shall issue a Delisting Determination under Rule 5810 with respect to that security.¹⁰

The cumulative impact of the proposed rule change and the 2020 Rule would be as follows:

- A company that effected a reverse stock split of any ratio will be subject to delisting if it falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement within one year of the previous reverse stock split.
- A company that effected one or more reverse stock split with a cumulative ratio of 1-for-250 or higher will be subject to delisting if it falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement within two years of the reverse stock split(s).

b. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,¹¹ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹² in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest by enhancing Nasdaq's listing requirements and limiting the time that a security can remain listed while non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement or becoming non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement within one year following a reverse stock split. In that regard, Nasdaq has observed that the challenges facing such companies generally are not temporary and may be so severe that the company is not likely to regain compliance within the prescribed compliance period. Moreover, the price concerns with these companies can be a leading indicator of other listing compliance concerns, and these companies often become subject to delisting for other reasons during the compliance periods.

¹¹ 15 U.S.C. 78f(b).

While listed, these securities are exempt from the “Penny Stock Rules,”¹³ which provide enhanced investor protections to prevent fraud and safeguard against potential market manipulation. In particular, the Penny Stock Rules generally require that broker-dealers provide a disclosure document to their customers describing the risk of investing in Penny Stocks and approve customer accounts for transactions in Penny Stocks.

Nasdaq believes that an exemption from these Penny Stock requirements may not be appropriate for consistently low priced stocks and stocks that are trading below $1 after completing a reverse stock splits over the prior year because these securities may have similar characteristics to Penny Stocks. Nasdaq therefore believes it is appropriate to subject these securities to heightened scrutiny given the availability of the exemption to securities listed on Nasdaq.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposal to amend Listing Rule 5815(a)(1)(B)(ii) to provide that a hearing request shall not stay the suspension of the securities from trading when the matter relates to a request made by a company that was afforded the second 180-day compliance period described in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) and that failed to regain compliance with the minimum bid price requirement during that period is designed to protect investors and the public interest. In particular, this change will prevent continued trading in such company’s securities until an independent Hearings Panel reviews the Delisting Determination and determines that continued trading on Nasdaq is appropriate.

Finally, Nasdaq believes the proposed rule change furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(7) of the Act in that it continues to provide a fair procedure for companies subject to these enhanced listing requirements. These companies can seek review of a Delisting Determination from a Hearings Panel, which can afford the company additional time to regain compliance, and can appeal the Hearings Panel decision to the Nasdaq Listing and Hearing Review Council.¹⁴ As a result, Nasdaq believes that the proposed rule appropriately balances the need for appropriate listing standards with the statutory requirement to protect investors and the public interest.

4. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. While Nasdaq does not believe there will be any impact on competition from the proposed change, any impact on competition that does arise will be necessary to better protect investors, in furtherance of a central purpose of the Act.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

Nasdaq is proposing to amend Listing Rules 5810 and 5815 to provide that a company will be suspended from trading on Nasdaq if the company has been non-compliant with the $1.00 bid price requirement for more than 360 days. In addition, Nasdaq is proposing to modify the listing standards such that Nasdaq will immediately send a Delisting Determination, as defined in Rule 5805(h), without any compliance period, to any company that becomes non-compliant with the $1.00 minimum bid price requirement if the company effected a reverse stock split within the prior one-year period.

Nasdaq listing standards require a company's equity securities listed on the Nasdaq Global Select, Global and Capital Markets to maintain a closing bid price that is no less than one dollar per share (the "Bid Price Requirement").³ Upon a company's failure to satisfy the applicable Bid Price Requirement, Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) provides for an automatic compliance period of 180 calendar days for the company to achieve compliance with the Bid Price Requirement.⁴ Subject to certain requirements,⁵ including notifying Nasdaq of the company's intent to cure this deficiency, a company listed on, or that transfers to, the Nasdaq Capital Market may be provided with a second 180-day compliance period. If a company is not eligible for the second compliance period, or the company is eligible but does not resolve the bid price concern during the second compliance period, the company is issued a Delisting Determination under Rule 5810 with respect to that security, which can be appealed to a Nasdaq Listing Qualifications Hearings Panel. The Panel can allow a company up to an additional 180 days from the date of the Delisting Determination for the company to regain compliance.⁶

The bid price rules truncate these compliance periods in two circumstances. First, Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iii) provides that if a company's security has a closing bid price of $0.10 or less for 10 consecutive trading days, Nasdaq must issue a Delisting

⁵ Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) states that if a Company listed on the Capital Market is not deemed in compliance before the expiration of the 180 day compliance period, it will be afforded an additional 180 day compliance period, provided that on the 180th day of the first compliance period it meets the applicable market value of publicly held shares requirement for continued listing and all other applicable standards for initial listing on the Capital Market (except the bid price requirement) based on the Company's most recent public filings and market information and notifies Nasdaq of its intent to cure this deficiency. If a Company does not indicate its intent to cure the deficiency, or if it does not appear to Nasdaq that it is possible for the Company to cure the deficiency, the Company will not be eligible for the second grace period. If the Company has publicly announced information (e.g., in an earnings release) indicating that it no longer satisfies the applicable listing criteria, it shall not be eligible for the additional compliance period under this rule.

⁶ See Rule 5815(c) (Scope of the Hearings Panel's Discretion).

Determination with respect to that security, notwithstanding any otherwise available compliance period. Second, Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iv) provides that if a company's security fails to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price and the company has effected one or more reverse stock splits over the prior two-year period with a cumulative ratio of 250 shares or more to one, then the company is not eligible for any compliance periods and Nasdaq must issue a Delisting Determination with respect to that security.

Based on Nasdaq's experience with the rules, Nasdaq is proposing two changes to the bid price requirements for listed companies to better protect investors.

Suspension After 360 Days of Non-compliance

Nasdaq has observed that some companies do not regain compliance during the second 180-day compliance period notwithstanding the company's notification to Nasdaq of its intent to do so. In these circumstances, Nasdaq issues a Delisting Determination; however, as described above, the company could continue its listing by appealing that decision to a Hearings Panel, which has the discretion to provide up to 180 additional days from the date of the Delisting Determination.⁷ Accordingly, a company that failed to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement may request a review of a Delisting Determination and seek an exception to the requirements from the Hearings Panel and could remain listed and trading on Nasdaq pursuant to an exception granted by the Panel. As a result, a company may be continuously deficient with the Bid Price Requirement and continue trading on Nasdaq for more than 360 days (but not more than 540 days).

Nasdaq believes that two consecutive compliance periods for a total of 360 days is a sufficient period of time for a company to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement, even if the company is required to obtain stockholder approval to effect a reverse stock split by the jurisdiction where the company is incorporated. Nasdaq provides a company with a second bid price compliance period only if the company reviewed its circumstances and notified Nasdaq that it intends to cure the bid price deficiency by effecting a reverse stock split within the second 180-day compliance period. As such, Nasdaq believes that it is not appropriate for a company in these circumstances to continue trading on Nasdaq during the pendency of the Hearings Panel review process. Instead, Nasdaq proposes to amend Rule 5815 to remove the stay provision in these situations so that the company's securities will be suspended from trading on Nasdaq during the pendency of the Hearings Panel's review.⁸

Specifically, Nasdaq proposes to adopt Listing Rule 5815(a)(1)(B)(ii)d. to provide that notwithstanding the general rule that a timely request for a hearing shall ordinarily stay the suspension and delisting action pending the issuance of a written panel decision, a request for a hearing shall not stay the suspension of the securities from trading where the matter relates to a request made by a company that was afforded the second 180-day compliance period described in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) and that failed to regain compliance with the minimum bid price requirement during that period. For clarity, Nasdaq proposes to note that pursuant to Rule 5810(c)(3)(A), a company achieves compliance with the minimum bid price requirement by meeting the applicable standard for a minimum of 10 consecutive business days, unless Staff exercises its discretion to extend this 10 day period as discussed in Rule 5810(c)(3)(H).

A company that is suspended under the proposed rule could appeal the Delisting Determination to a Hearings Panel, but its securities would trade in the over-the-counter (OTC) market while that appeal is pending. Pursuant to Listing Rule 5815(c)(1)(A) the Hearings Panel will continue to have discretion, where it deems appropriate, to provide an exception for up to 180 days from the Delisting Determination date for the company to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. Pursuant to Listing Rule 5815(c)(1)(E) the Hearings Panel will also continue to have the authority to find the company in compliance with all applicable listing standards and reinstate the trading of the company's securities on Nasdaq (e.g., if the company effects a reverse stock split and maintains a $1.00 closing bid price for at least 10 consecutive days while trading in the OTC market).

Excessive Reverse Stock Splits

As described above, upon a company's failure to satisfy the applicable Bid Price Requirement, Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) provides for an automatic compliance period of 180 calendar days for the company to achieve compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. The process of providing an automatic 180-day compliance period is designed to allow adequate time for a company facing temporary business issues, a temporary decrease in the market value of its securities, or temporary market conditions to regain compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. However, Nasdaq has observed that some companies, typically those in financial distress or experiencing a prolonged operational downturn, engage in a pattern of repeated reverse stock splits.

Nasdaq believes that such behavior is often indicative of deep financial or operational distress within such companies rendering them inappropriate for trading on Nasdaq for investor protection reasons. In these situations, Nasdaq has observed that the challenges facing such companies, generally, are not temporary and may be so severe that the company is not likely to regain compliance within the prescribed compliance period and will continue oscillating between compliance and non-compliance with the Bid Price Requirement. Moreover, a pattern of recurring bid price non-compliance can be a leading indicator of other listing compliance concerns. As a result, these companies often become subject to delisting for other reasons during the compliance periods.

In 2020, Nasdaq amended the rules to require the issuance of a Delisting Determination if a company falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement after completing one or more reverse stock splits resulting in a cumulative ratio of 250 shares or more to one over the two-year period before such non-compliance (the “2020 Rule”).⁹ As described above, in these cases the company is not afforded an automatic compliance period. Notwithstanding this rule change, Nasdaq continues to observe some companies engaging in a pattern of effecting consecutive reverse stock splits, which are often accompanied by dilutive issuances of securities.

Accordingly, Nasdaq proposes to further enhance investor protections by immediately initiating the delisting process (rather than providing a 180-day compliance period) for any company’s security that becomes non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement if, in the prior one-year period, the company conducted a reverse stock split (regardless of the ratio). The company could appeal that delisting notification to the

Hearings Panel, where it could receive up to 180 days to regain compliance, as described above. Specifically, Nasdaq proposes to amend Listing Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(iv) to provide that if a company's security fails to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price and the company has effected a reverse stock split over the prior one-year period then the company shall not be eligible for any compliance period specified in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) and the Listing Qualifications Department shall issue a Delisting Determination under Rule 5810 with respect to that security.¹⁰

The cumulative impact of the proposed rule change and the 2020 Rule would be as follows:

- A company that effected a reverse stock split of any ratio will be subject to delisting if it falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement within one year of the previous reverse stock split.
- A company that effected one or more reverse stock split with a cumulative ratio of 1-for-250 or higher will be subject to delisting if it falls out of compliance with the Bid Price Requirement within two years of the reverse stock split(s).

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,¹¹ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹² in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest by enhancing Nasdaq's listing requirements and limiting the time that a security can remain listed while non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement or becoming non-compliant with the Bid Price Requirement within one year following a reverse stock split. In that regard, Nasdaq has observed that the challenges facing such companies generally are not temporary and may be so severe that the company is not likely to regain compliance within the prescribed compliance period. Moreover, the price concerns with these companies can be a leading indicator of other listing compliance concerns, and these companies often become subject to delisting for other reasons during the compliance periods.

While listed, these securities are exempt from the "Penny Stock Rules,"¹³ which provide enhanced investor protections to prevent fraud and safeguard against potential market manipulation. In particular, the Penny Stock Rules generally require that broker-dealers provide a disclosure document to their customers describing the risk of investing in Penny Stocks and approve customer accounts for transactions in Penny Stocks. Nasdaq believes that an exemption from these Penny Stock requirements may not be appropriate for consistently low priced stocks and stocks that are trading below $1 after completing a reverse stock splits over the prior year because these securities may have similar characteristics to Penny Stocks. Nasdaq therefore believes it is appropriate to subject these securities to heightened scrutiny given the availability of the exemption to securities listed on Nasdaq.

Nasdaq also believes that the proposal to amend Listing Rule 5815(a)(1)(B)(ii) to provide that a hearing request shall not stay the suspension of the securities from trading when the matter relates to a request made by a company that was afforded the second 180-day compliance period described in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) and that failed to regain compliance with the minimum bid price requirement during that period is designed to protect investors and the public interest. In particular, this change will prevent continued trading in such company's securities until an independent Hearings Panel reviews the Delisting Determination and determines that continued trading on Nasdaq is appropriate.

Finally, Nasdaq believes the proposed rule change furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(7) of the Act in that it continues to provide a fair procedure for companies subject to these enhanced listing requirements. These companies can seek review of a Delisting Determination from a Hearings Panel, which can afford the company additional time to regain compliance, and can appeal the Hearings Panel decision to the Nasdaq Listing and Hearing Review Council.¹⁴ As a result, Nasdaq believes that the proposed rule appropriately balances the need for appropriate listing standards with the statutory requirement to protect investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. While Nasdaq does not believe there will be any impact on competition from the proposed change, any impact on competition that does arise will be necessary to better protect investors, in furtherance of a central purpose of the Act.

5810. Notification of Deficiency by the Listing Qualifications Department

When the Listing Qualifications Department determines that a Company does not meet a listing standard set forth in the Rule 5000 Series, it will immediately notify the Company of the deficiency. As explained in more detail below, deficiency notifications are of four types:

(1) – (4) No change.

Notifications of deficiencies that allow for submission of a compliance plan or an automatic cure or compliance period may result, after review of the compliance plan or expiration of the cure or compliance period, in issuance of a Staff Delisting Determination or a Public Reprimand Letter.

(a) – (b) No change.

IM-5810-1. No change.

(c) Types of Deficiencies and Notifications

The type of deficiency at issue determines whether the Company will be immediately suspended and delisted, or whether it may submit a compliance plan for review or is entitled to an automatic cure or compliance period before a Staff Delisting Determination is issued. In the case of a deficiency not specified below, Staff will issue the Company a Staff Delisting Determination or a Public Reprimand Letter.

(1) – (2) No change.

(3) Deficiencies for which the Rules Provide a Specified Cure or Compliance Period

With respect to deficiencies related to the standards listed in (A) - (F) below, Staff's notification will inform the Company of the applicable cure or compliance period provided by these Rules and discussed below. If the Company does not regain compliance within the specified cure or compliance period, the Listing Qualifications Department will immediately issue a Staff Delisting Determination letter.

(A) Bid Price

A failure to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price shall be determined to exist only if the deficiency continues for a period of 30 consecutive business days. Upon such failure, the Company shall be notified promptly and shall have a period of 180 calendar days from such notification to achieve compliance. Compliance can be achieved during any compliance period by meeting the applicable standard for a minimum of 10 consecutive business days during the applicable compliance period, unless Staff exercises its discretion to extend this 10 day period as discussed in Rule 5810(c)(3)(H).

(i) – (iii) No change.

(iv) Excessive Reverse Stock Splits

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if a Company's security fails to meet the continued listing requirement for minimum bid price and the Company has effected a reverse stock split over the prior one-year period; or has effected one or more reverse stock splits over the prior two-year period with a cumulative ratio of 250 shares or more to one, then the Company shall not be eligible for any compliance period specified in this Rule 5810(c)(3)(A) and the Listing Qualifications Department shall issue a Staff Delisting Determination under Rule 5810 with respect to that security.

(B) – (H) No change.

(4) No change.

(d) No change.

5815. Review of Staff Determinations by Hearings Panel

When a Company receives a Staff Delisting Determination or a Public Reprimand Letter issued by the Listing Qualifications Department, or when its application for initial listing is denied, it may request in writing that the Hearings Panel review the matter in a written or an oral hearing. This section sets forth the procedures for requesting a hearing before a Hearings Panel, describes the Hearings Panel and the possible outcomes of a hearing, and sets forth Hearings Panel procedures.

(a) Procedures for Requesting and Preparing for a Hearing

(1) Timely Request Stays Delisting

(A) No change.

(B) Subject to the following limitations, a timely request for a hearing shall ordinarily stay the suspension and delisting action pending the issuance of a written Panel Decision.

(i) No change.

(ii) A timely request for a hearing will not stay the suspension of the securities from trading pending the issuance of a written Panel Decision when the Staff Delisting Determination is related to one of the following deficiencies:

a. No change.

b. A Company that has filed for protection under any provision of the federal bankruptcy laws, or comparable foreign laws, or that has announced that liquidation has been authorized by its board of directors and that it is committed to proceed, as described in Nasdaq Rule 5110(b); [or]

c. 1. In the case of a Staff Delisting Determination letter issued before October 7, 2024, a Company whose business plan is to complete one or more acquisitions, as described in Rule IM-5101-2, which qualified for listing pursuant to the alternative initial listing requirements in Rule 5406, that fails to meet (i) the continued listing requirement in Rule 5452(a)(1) or (ii) the requirements for initial listing immediately following a business combination as required by Rule IM-5101-2[.];

c. 2. In the case of a Staff Delisting Determination letter issued on or after October 7, 2024, a Company whose business plan is to complete one or more acquisitions, as described in Rule IM-5101-2, which fails to meet (i) the continued listing requirement in Rules 5452(a)(1) and (3), for companies that listed pursuant to the alternative initial listing requirements in Rule 5406; (ii) the requirement set forth in Rule IM-5101-2(b) to complete one or more business combinations within 36 months of the effectiveness of its IPO registration statement; or (iii) the requirements for initial listing immediately following a business combination as required by Rule IM-5101-2[.]; or

d. A Company afforded the second 180-day compliance period described in Rule 5810(c)(3)(A)(ii) that failed to regain compliance with the minimum bid price requirement during that period. Pursuant to Rule 5810(c)(3)(A), a Company achieves compliance with the minimum bid price requirement by meeting the applicable standard for a minimum of 10 consecutive business days, unless Staff exercises its discretion to extend this 10 day period as discussed in Rule 5810(c)(3)(H).

In each case, the Company's securities will be immediately suspended and will remain suspended unless the Panel Decision issued after the hearing determines to reinstate the securities.

(2) - (6) No change.

(b) – (d) No change.
